PESTS AND DISEASES

Chewing pests

 White butterfly caterpillars eat holes in plant leaves. Commonly found on brassicas.

4. Cabbage tree moth caterpillars chew on the edge of leaves.

7. Whiteflies feed on the underside of leaves and produces honeydew. Sooty mould grows on this.

 Snails feed and damage a large number of vegetables and ornamental plants.

5. Leaf miners burrow into leaves cause tunnels along the leaf.

8. Shield or vegetable bugs pierce and suck plants. They can leave holes in fruit.

3. Leafrollers feed on leaves, fruit and shoots of plants. They roll up leaves leaving silky webbing.

Sucking pests

6. Thrips suck the sap from leaves and can cause them to go silvery.

There are many types of scale.
 They push their mouthparts into the plant. This leads to poor and distorted plant growth.

PESTS AND DISEASES

10. Leafhoppers can cause leaves to become mottled.

13. Late blight causes green/brown patches on the leaf of potatoes.

16. Phytophora is a root disease which causes the plants to wilt.

11. Nematodes attack stem, leaves and under ground parts. This can slow down the uptake of water and nutrients.

14. Damping off causes roots and stems of seedlings to rot.

17. Powdery mildew is a common disease on pumpkins, melons and various fruits. It covers the leaf and stems in a grey white fungus.

Fungal disease

12. Rust on poplar leaves.

15. Botrytis or grey mould will cause stems to collapse. This disease can also infect fruit.

18. Peach leaf curl infects peach leaves causing them to become distorted.

PESTS AND DISEASES

Bacterial diseases

19. Leaf and black sport forms spots on the leaves of plants.

20. Fireblight causes plants leave and stems to dieback and wither.

21. Daphne virus causes distortion and leaf mottling of leaves.

↑♪ 取り食く取り食く取り取り食く取り食く取りました。

Viral diseases

22. Rose virus shows up as a lined pattern on leaves.

25. A cicada infected by a fungal disease.

23. Lacewing larva preying on aphid.

Sucking Pests

24. White butterfly pupa about to be parasitised by pteromalus. The wasp will lay its eggs on the